Faculty Training Programme in Research Project Management
-Proposal to Publication and Beyond
(For Science Faculty)
19th July, 2016

Research and Development is sometimes seen as an art and its practitioners are often unaware of how to manage the process effectively. Effective management of R&D projects, keeping to budgets, timeframes and outcomes, is a skill that can be built up with experience.

For taking research from bench to paper and beyond and understanding the mechanism at each step, it is extremely important to be acquainted with various phases of a research project starting the ideation stage to writing the proposal, defending the grant, managing the project, being ethically sound and publishing that research in a prestigious journal.

The Centre proposes to organize a Faculty Training Programme in Research Project Management -Proposal to Publication and beyond on 19 July 2016 at the Centre for Science Education and Communication. This will include the following topics:

- Selecting a research project topic,
- Writing a proposal,
- Defending grants through effective presentations,
- Managing a project and resources
- Selecting a journal for publication
- Publication Ethics
- R&D and Entrepreneurship

Applications are invited via email at csec.events@gmail.com till 09 July 2016 from college science faculty mainly (but not restricted to) those who are a part of Innovation Projects.

The application format is Name, Designation, Department/College, Email ID, Mobile number, research exposure, reason for attending the course.
