About Simplilend:

The global marketplace is fraught with inefficiencies in its ability to provide capital to individuals and businesses without a credit score or collateral. In addition, a strong history of credit and sufficient collateral does not guarantee swift availability of funds and easy serviceability of borrowing/lending needs. The problem is perhaps more pronounced in countries such as India. SimpliLend is an attempt to simplify access to credit in India. They endeavor to add simplicity across two dimensions namely coverage of individuals and serviceability of a loan by using disruptive technology and domain expertise. They intend to support the current financial services institutions and infrastructure by way of their technology.
